PASTOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

Today we will talk about the last of the four Cardinal Virtues - the virtue of Temperance (or moderation). The Catechism tells us that the virtue of temperance helps us to moderate the attraction of pleasure in order to provide a healthy balance in the use of good things. Now, there are two ways we can consider healthy; in a physical way or in a spiritual way - just as there are two perspectives of the virtue of temperance in a physical way or in a spiritual way.

Temperance in a physical way helps us to balance our pleasure for something human, the common example is to moderate our desires for sweets in order to maintain or work towards a physical appearance or health. While temperance in a spiritual sense, is in order to work toward or maintain a spiritual health. (For example, to moderate our sweets on Fridays in order to grow in a deeper love for Jesus or to be temperate in our love for sports on Sunday in order to attend mass or to keep our daily prayers.)

God does not forbid pleasurable things – things we enjoy and that are not sinful – but God does forbid the disordered attachment to them or sinful attachments. Saint Thomas Aquinas tells us, “Pleasure can be good in that they give us joy and may help us to continue in the good. The only thing is that it should be regulated by our reason.” And lastly, we can remind ourselves of the words of Saint Peter, “for a person is a slave of whatever overcomes him.” (2 Pt. 2:19) The virtue of temperance helps us to break these bonds of slavery to passions and aid us to act more with reason.

A fairly practice prayer we can make is to deny ourselves of a pleasurable thing in order to ask God for a spiritual good. For example, I would really like a second piece of pie, I will not have another pie because I want to ask God for the virtue of humility. We in this case are practicing temperance, offering God a prayer and asking for a reasonable good instead of a pleasurable good. Together in Prayer

GOSPEL Luke 6.27-38 of Sunday February 20

Jesus said to his disciples: “I say to you that listen: Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. If anyone strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also; and from anyone who takes away your coat do not withhold even your shirt. Give to everyone who begs from you; and if anyone takes away your goods, do not ask for them again. Do to others as you would have them do to you.

“If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them. If you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners do the same. If you lend to those from whom you hope to receive, what credit is that to you? Even sinners lend to sinners, to receive as much again. But love your enemies, do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return. Your reward will be great, and you will be children of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful.

“Do not judge, and you will not be judged; do not condemn, and you will not be condemned. Forgive, and you will be forgiven; give, and it will be given to you. A good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, will be put into your lap; for the measure you give will be the measure you get back.”
